Taking Charge...of Your Career and Job Search

With the recent trends in our economy, many are forced to take a step back and evaluate their career and job circumstance. Whether you are just beginning your job search in the working world, job searching after being laid-off from your job, or preparing for a worst case scenario of losing your job, this workshop will provide you with the tools you need to immediately take action on the job search front.

The primary focuses of this workshop will be the “nuts and bolts” of career searching:

- Resume building
- Job searching techniques
- Networking
- Interviewing skills

We know this is serious business as people make determinations about the job and careers...and this will be a serious “get down to business” workshop. The workshop leaders have a couple of decades of experience in the areas of change and transition, career decision-making, and job searching skills. We have coached people all over the nation and internationally, and professionals ranging from blue collar industries to the executive ranks. Rest assured, we will not waste your time.

This workshop will:

- Be a stimulating, thought-provoking, and interactive experience
- Help you get clear and focused about your career and/or job search direction
- Provide key tools and tips to address the variety of phases throughout a career/job search process
- Provide you with an easy to follow action-plan that you can set in motion when the workshop is complete
- Provide tips and tools to use when networking and resume building

Bonus Module: Develop a vision and mission for your life and career!!!

Seats for this highly interactive, skills oriented, and fun workshop are limited!
